

MASTER OF BUSINESS ANALYTICS

The best business leaders don't just use data, they lead with it. Data that drives business decisions requires more skill and insight from leaders than ever before. That's why those with the expertise to make sense of complex data — and transform it into real results — set both themselves and their organizations up for success.

The Michigan Ross Master of Business Analytics (MBAAn) Program readies you to be the impactful, data-driven leader today's businesses demand. Our action-based curriculum provides a rigorous foundation in both business fundamentals and data analytics, preparing you to lead in fields like data engineering, data architecture, and machine learning. Cross-functional electives offer the opportunity to explore speciality areas like fintech and biotech, while co-curricular activities give you the ability to develop your unique leadership style.

With the power of a Michigan Ross Master of Business Analytics degree, when it's your time to lead with data...

YOU'LL BE READY.
